Tactical Dispatch: Advanced Tactics

In today's communication centers, the need for Tactical Dispatchers is increasing. This course, designed for agencies with existing tactical dispatch teams, provides more advanced skills to their team members. Topics discussed include: a breakdown of the many roles and responsibilities in the field, liability, ICS review as it applies to tactical dispatch, proper use of ICS forms, hotwash/after action decisions, and stress management. This course will also give students a better understanding of what field responders need from their tactical dispatchers. Students practice these concepts with hands-on exercises.
